DEDICATION

With much affection and a deep feeling of gratitude we, the Class of 1964, dedicate our senior yearbook to Miss Patricia Buckley and Mr. Richard Mannix. We shall long remember their untiring efforts as our class advisors, in making our class one to be remembered in Natick High School history. No two people could ever have shown such a sympathetic understanding or exhibit such patience, both as advisors and friends.

Thus, it is in this humble manner of dedicating our yearbook that we try to thank two people who have dedicated themselves so much to the Class of 1964.

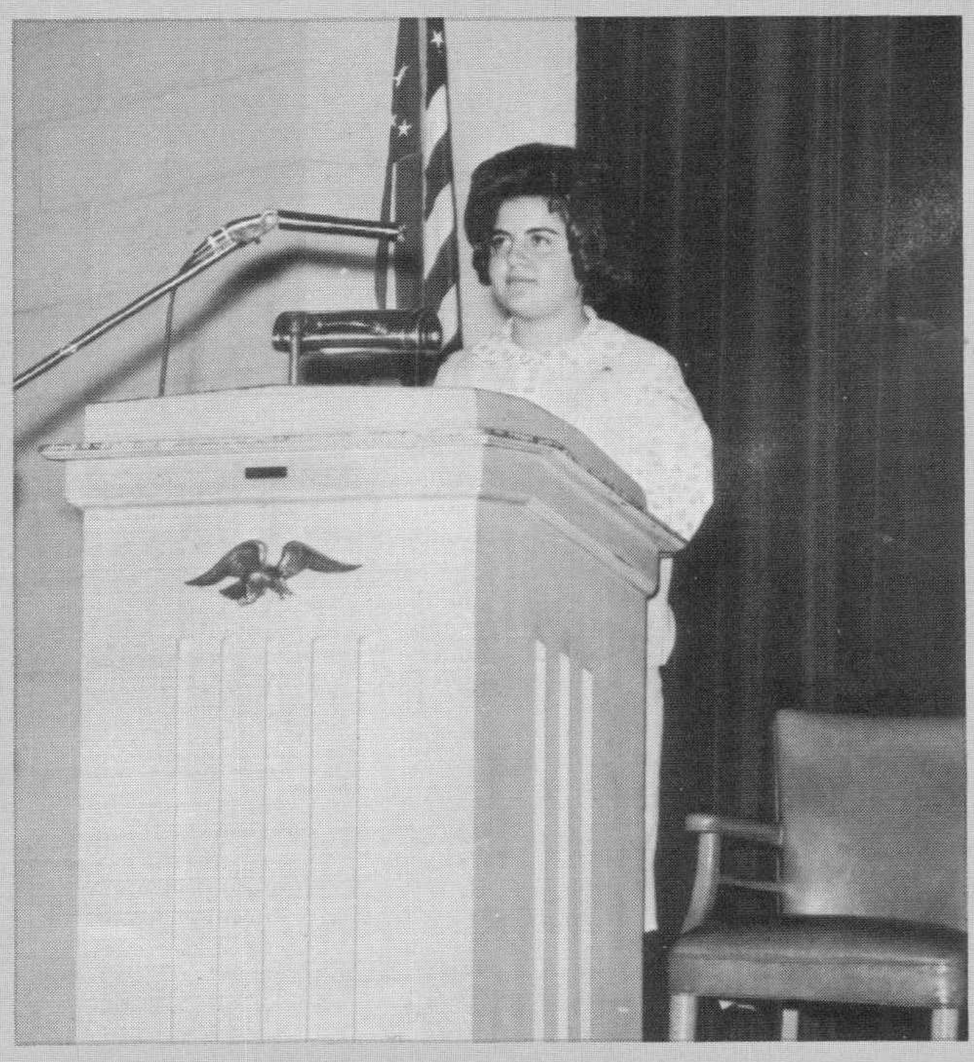
IN MEMORY OF

One of our saddest memories will always be the untimely death of our classmate, John Sullivan, who was killed in an automobile accident in South Natick in the summer of 1963.

John was born February 2, 1946 and was educated in the Lincoln Elementary School and the Coolidge Junior High School. The son of Attorney and Mrs. John Sullivan, he is also survived by four brothers.

"Vain the tribute we would pay him, words cannot express
What it meant to have him with us, and our thankfulness;
Sweet the memory he has left us, though our hearts are sad."



An important part of the life of each and every Senior of 1964 was found in the sharing of experiences with Alicia Siderman.

Our first American Field Service exchange student gave us new insight and understanding of our Argentina neighbors and helped to extend the spirit of unity to a broader meaning.

Our thoughts and good wishes go with you until we meet again.

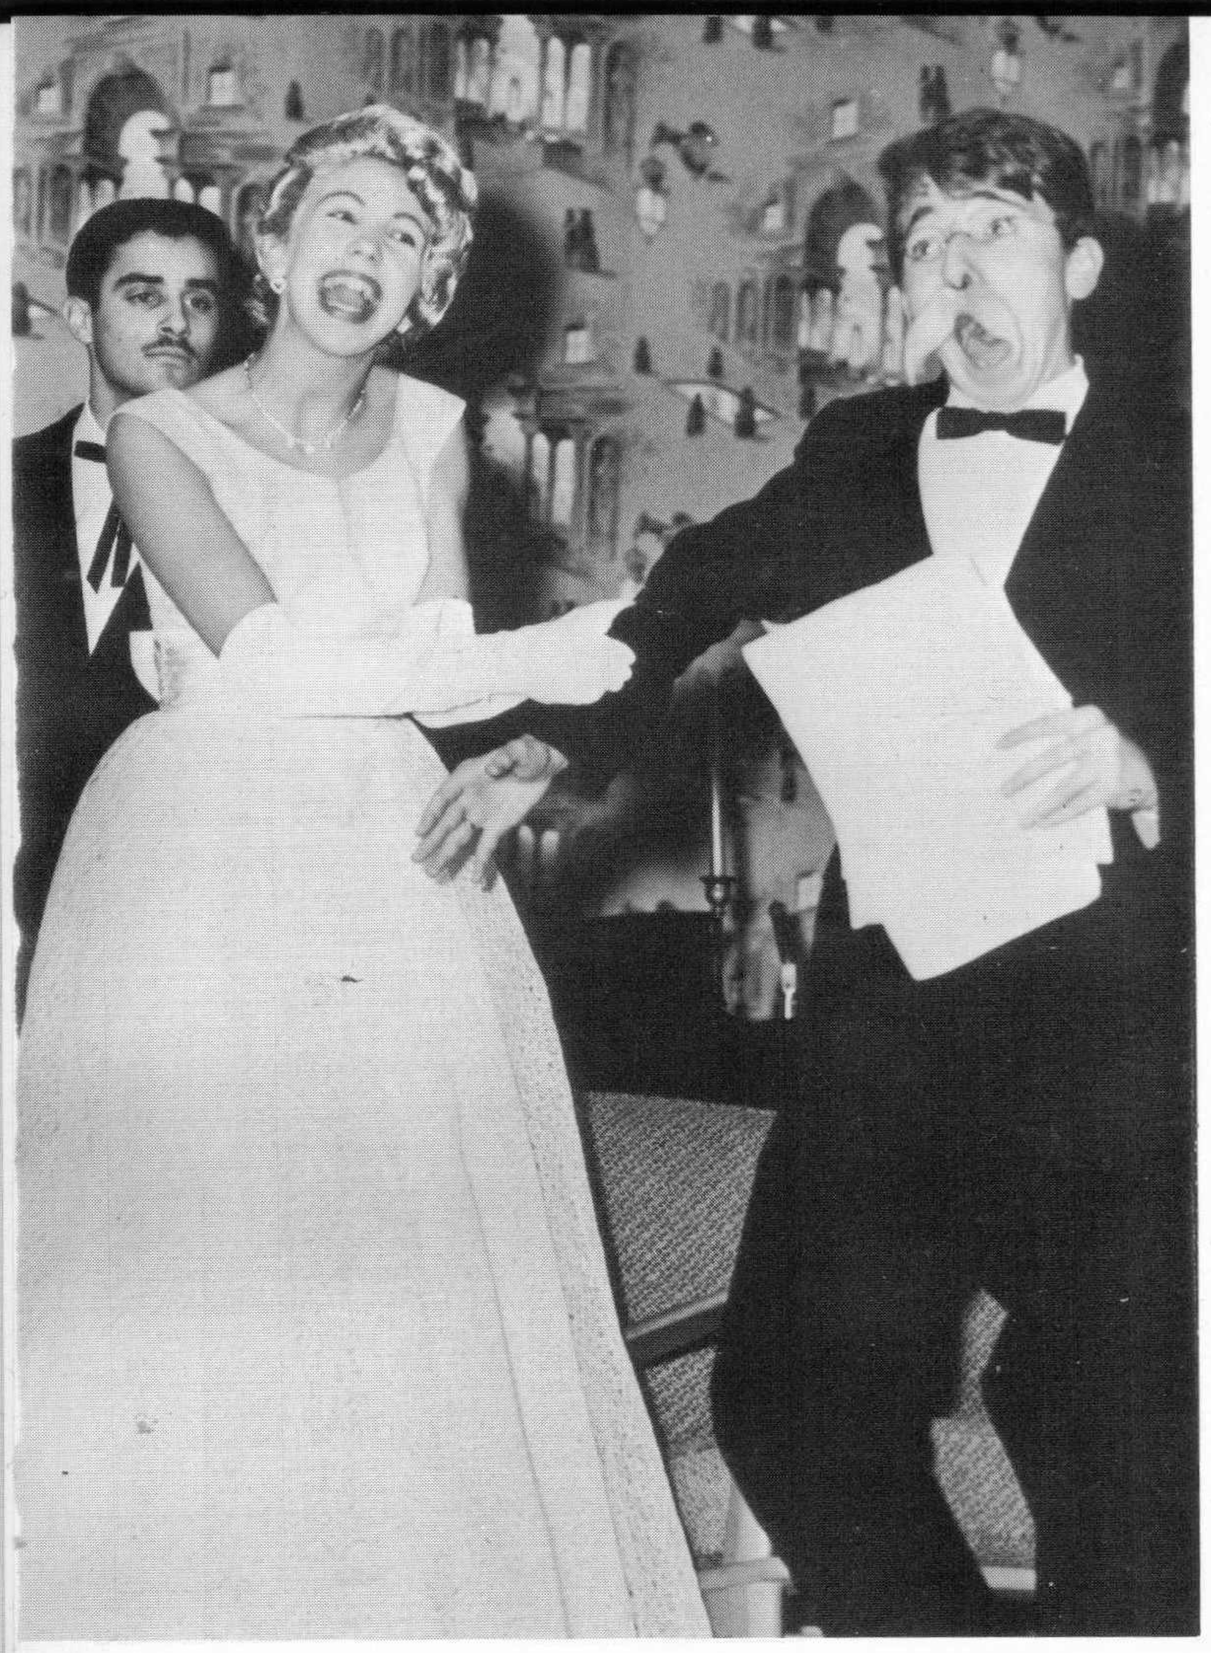
THE SENIOR PLAY

On November 15, 1963, the Class of 1964 presented in the Col. Jeremiah J. Healy Auditorium the comedy entitled "Thieves' Carnival" written by Jean Anouilh, one of France's most famous twentieth century dramatists, and directed by Harry L. Garnett.

The setting is Vichy, an expensive resort city in the south of France, where three highly unsuccessful yet very ethical pickpockets find themselves the house guests of an eccentric millionairess with two lovely nieces.



ADD

TWO

A musician who never speaks; one town crier with a large watch; a little girls who picks other people's flowers at night; a chic nursemaid; one dainty servant girl;

AND

MIX WELL

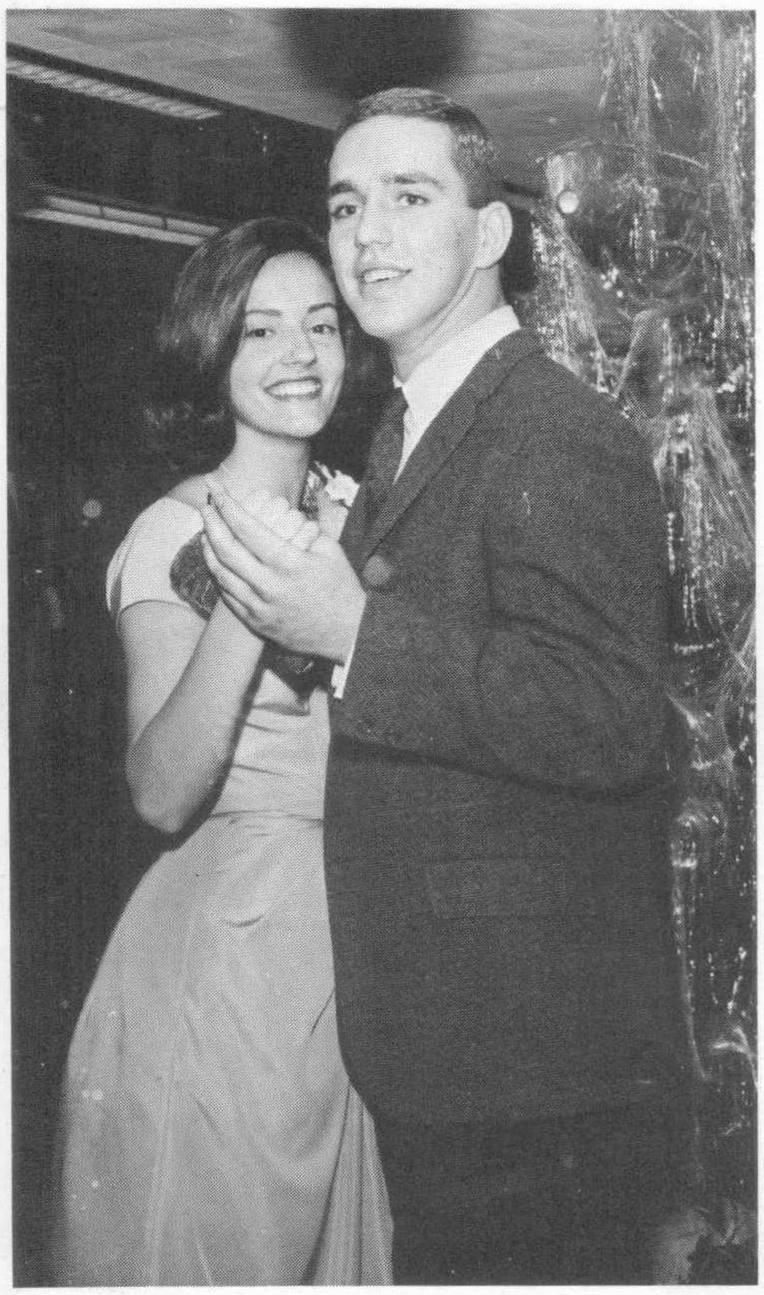
Explosions of laughter result.

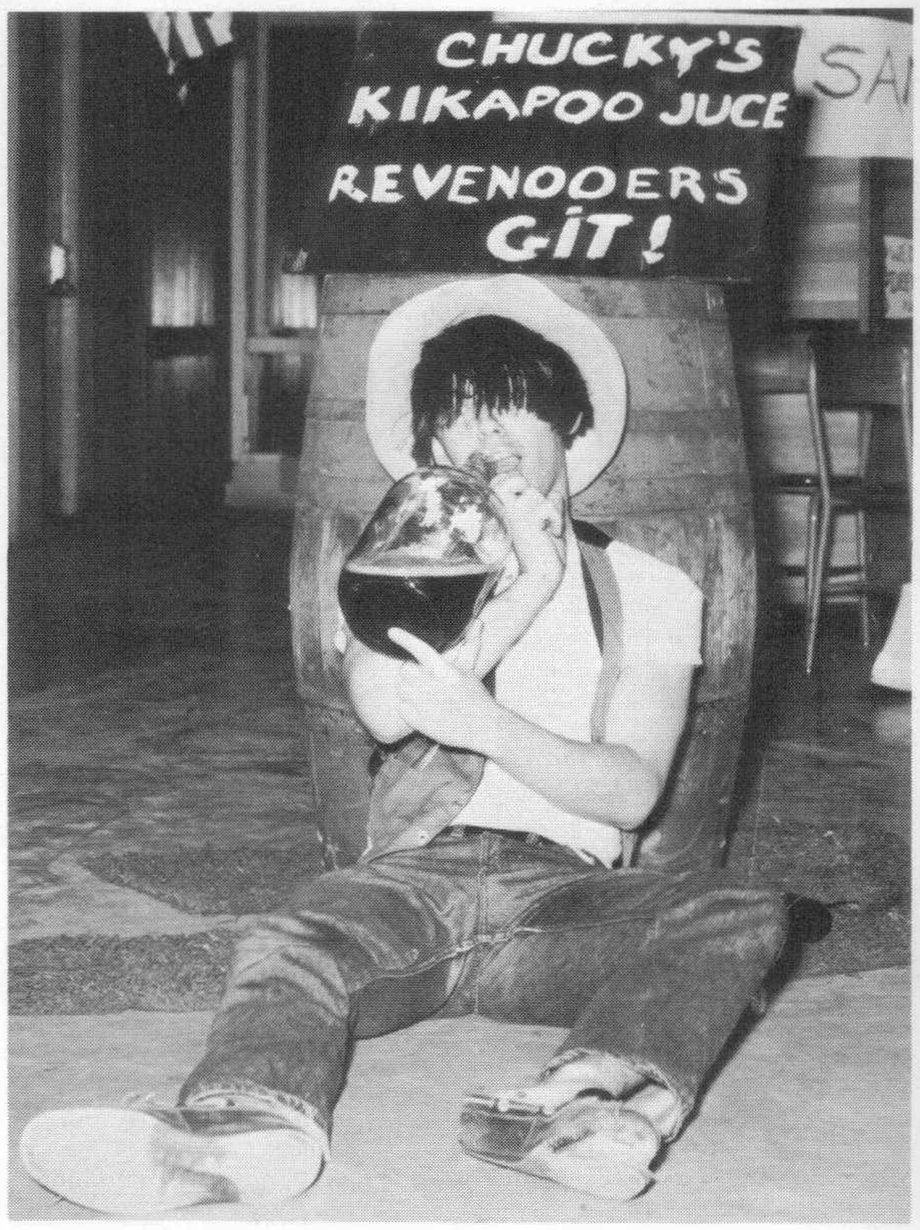
As Lady Hurf remarks, "it is only for those who have played it with all the zest of youth that the comedy is a success", and that is evidently what the cast did, for the play was received enthusiastically by an overflow audience.

CHRISTMAS COTILLION

Icicles, snow balls, sleigh and a glittering Christmas tree transformed our cafeteria into a "Winter Wonderland" at Christmas time. The girls, all beautiful, with their dashing escorts were a sight to behold. The excellent music made for a dancing good time.

Chris Langlois was crowned Snow Queen and accepted it humbly. Our evening was complete by the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Hennigar, Mr. and Mrs. McManus, Mr. Mannix and Mr. Alitalo, who so graciously chaperoned the affair.





Natick High School students donned their best Dogpatch outfits for the Sadie Hawkins dance held on May 20, 1964. While the Windjammers and Bill Glasser provided entertainment for the girl-ask-boy affair, Kurt Anderson as Marrying Sam did a landslide business in marriage and divorce ceremonies.

John Fitzgerald and Josephine Washington reigned as Mr. and Miss Dogpatch for the evening and Marty Siegel and Jimmy Nollman, acting as discjockeys, made the annual Sassamon dance a complete success.

South Pacific

On April 3, 1964, the auditorium, temporarily transformed into an exotic Pacific island complete with palm trees and grass skirts, was filled to capacity as the curtain rose on our production of Rodgers and Hammerstein's SOUTH PACIFIC. The cast, prepared by long hours of rehearsal under the able direction of Mr. Harry L. Garnett and Mr. Leo Bachini, met its challenge and rendered an unforgettable performance.

CAST

Luther Billis	Ronald Monaco

The two-act musical drama took place on a U. S. Navy-held island in the Pacific during World War II. Nellie Forbush, a young Navy nurse, convincingly played by Jean Fader, fell in love with the French plantation owner, Emile deBecque. Arnold Bellefontaine, a skilled veteran of many N.H.S. productions, gave an award-winning performance in this role. After a quarrel with Nellie, Emile left on a dangerous mission with Lt. Joe Cable (Clif Freligh), who had fallen in love with the lovely native girl Liat (Natalie Fuller). At the cost of Cable's life, the mission was a success and the Japanese were driven from the area. Emile returned and he and Nellie solved the problems that came between them.

Dara Roberts (Wilson Jr. High) and Steven Lang (Coolidge Jr. High) gave delightful performances as deBecque's children. Ronald Monaco as Luther Billis, Sue Barker as Bloody Mary, James Saart and John Harper as Navy "brass" — all gave outstanding performances.

The cast of sailors and marines included Winfield Peterson, David Channell, David Kupps, Andrew Jones, John Fitzgerald, Stephen Caron, Lawrence Barker, Kurt Herber, Don Nardo, Scott McCarthy, Michael Wolfe, Jeffrey Adams, James Coplan, and Robert Dewis.

The role of the nurses was filled by Margaret Schulman, Susan Cote, Susan O'Hara, Elaine Roberts, Patti Collins, Michaele Powers, Sare Madden, Judy Judge, Caryn Sandrew, Paula Williams, and Cathy Brown.

Outstanding work in lighting and sound by Peter Thompson and Robert Mostecki and music by our excellent Dance Band contributed greatly to the overwhelming success of our production.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The purpose of Natick High School's Student Council is to represent the student body and to assist the school's administration and the student body in promoting those activities and behavior patterns which are in the best interest of the school.

The 1963-1964 Council, under the guidance of Mr. Arthur G. Sticklor, consisted of thirty-two members including officers Richard Hayes (President); Arnold Bellefontaine (Vice President); Natalie Fuller (Secretary); and Diane O'Donnell (Treasurer). This council has not only fulfilled the basic requirements, but has also been extremely active in instituting improvements and new programs.

Some of the more important new programs sponsored include the formation of a Debating Society, the adoption of a new School Song, the establishment of the Student Board where council information and activities are posted in order that the student body can be better informed. There were open meetings to enable more students to learn procedure and operations of such meetings, and a Student Supply Center was opened in May. The latter was, perhaps, the most important project of the council. The purpose of the center is to make school supplies and paperback literature available to the student body.

The Senior Executive Board has held weekly meetings since September formulating plans for their long-awaited senior week. Senior Banquet, June 2, featured tributes to advisers who have assisted us with our senior play, musical, yearbook and numerous additional class activities. The class picnic, senior reception, class day and graduation were all colorful and exciting. The committees all deserve our thanks for their long and faithful hours of hard work which made these days ones that we shall long remember.

The members of the Junior Executive Board spent many hours of hard work forming committees and carrying out the many activities preliminary to one of the most colorful proms of all times. The Midnight Masquerade featured colorful and talented work on the part of the decorating committees. The gorgeous gowns, the perfect music, and graceful dancers gave such a festive air to the occasion that we shall cherish this as one of our fondest memories.

The Sophomore class won recognition as a hard-working and loyal group when they sponsored a spring dance on May 8. All committee members worked hard to make this first class activity a social and a financial success.

The Business Staff under the guidance of Mr. William Anderson and Susan Lefebvre, business manager, Eileen Farrell, advertising manager, and Dede O'Donnell, subscription manager, completed a very successful year. Through the efforts of the Student Council the number of subscriptions remained at a high point.

Most of the business concerns in Natick continued to place advertisements in our paper. Additional income was raised at the Sadie Hawkins Dance. The business staff is greatly indebted to Miss Ethel Ward and the literary staff under the direction of Elaine Roberts for their continued support.

SASSAMON LITERARY STAFF

The literary staff, under the direction of Miss Ethel Ward and Elaine Roberts worked hard to produce an improved Sassamon this year. The assistants and their staffs were faithful and conscientious and should be congratulated for a job well done.

Several of the staff attended conferences at Boston University, meetings sponsored by the Boston Globe, and a session for editors and advisers sponsored by the Patriot Ledger. These meetings were inspiring and informative.

Glen Durfee, the editor for the coming year, has pledged his willingness to accept the challenge and give N.H.S. a paper that will make us all proud of his staff.

CAFETERIA MARSHALLS

As the enrollment at Natick High grows larger, the work of the marshalls becomes more difficult. These boys, under the direction of Mr. Robert Andrews, are responsible for keeping the Cafeteria orderly, neat, and attractive during the four lunch periods daily. They have received the commendation of outside visitors on many occasions.

To be sure, we have incidents where a milk bottle may be broken, or a careless customer may not leave his table neat and clean, but on the whole we feel things run very smoothly. We are proud of these boys and the job they do.

SAFETY PATROL

With the beginning of school came the official start of the safety patrolers' duties. The official calls of "walk" and "no loitering" were audible throughout the corridors. An abundance of patrolers provided coverage for every post imaginable. This year's safety patrol is composed of the largest number since its beginning. Mr. Tassos Filledes is the advisor. The officers of the patrol include: Robert Budnick, president; Ellen Fishman, vice-president; Kathleen Horton, secretary; and Elaine Roberts, treasurer. Nicki McKeen, John Fitzgerald, and Nancy Hayes are the remaining commissioners.

The nurses' aides are a much-needed part of the function of our clinic. They keep a daily record of patients, assist with recording eye and ear test scores, take telephone messages, keep the files in order, type, and assist in any way possible. Without their help the office would have to be closed whenever the nurse was called out to assist at an accident or to see that a patient is transported home safely.

LIBRARY AIDES

This group of girls works with Miss Harris and Mrs. Oldfield checking books in and out, helping keep the library neat and attractive, manning the desk, answering the phone, and making themselves useful on all occasions.

Their quiet, dignified, and efficient manner and their willingness to help at all times is indeed appreciated by both the faculty and the student body.
